

Expand your possibilities and revitalize your practices across cultures on the Mexican Mayan Riviera.

Playa del Carmen is on the Mexican Mayan Riviera and the crystal clear, turquoise Caribbean. It has white sand beaches, shopping, and a variety of restaurants.

For adventure: catch the ferry to the Island of Cozumel or visit the Mayan Ruins, the cenotes, and Xcaret and Xel-Ha ecological reserves. Playa del Carmen is south of the Cancun International Airport which is easily accessible from major airports around the world by commercial and charter airlines (www.playadelcarmeninfo.com).

Hotel Las Palapas, is a beach resort with palapa-style rooms, palm trees, tropical gardens, hammocks and pool. The resort atmosphere of lazy afternoons and summer evening provides ample time for the beach, cultural activities, networking, small conversational clusters, and informal opportunities to consult (www.laspalapas.com).

Faculty

Harlene Anderson, founding member of the Houston Galveston Institute and the Taos Institute, and author of the book: Conversation, Language and Possibilities: A Postmodern Approach to Therapy, is recognized internationally as being at the leading edge of postmodern practices.

Elena Fernández, Sylvia London, Irma Rodríguez and Margarita Tarragona are faculty of Grupo Campos Eliseos, a postmodern training institute in Mexico City, affiliated with HGI. Sara London, a Mexico City artist known for her experimentation with techniques, enriches the ISI experience with her language of art.

COLLABORATIVE PRACTICES AROUND THE WORLD

Keynotes and Workshops

Harlene Anderson and International Faculty

Junio 18–19, 2005

Playa del Carmen, QR. México

Generate surprising possibilities through collaborative relationships and conversations.

Harlene Anderson and Harry Goolishian pioneered the development and introduction of postmodern collaborative therapy to the psychotherapy field. Harlene continues to broaden and deepen her collaborative philosophy and practices around the world and to extend them to training, research, mentoring and organizational consultation.

The International Summer Institute is a unique opportunity to learn with Harlene Anderson and her Grupo Campos Elíseos colleagues.

Explore and experience postmodern social-construction ideas and practices with people from around the world. Immerse in a creative collaborative learning community. Enjoy our warm welcome and hospitality.

Forum includes: lectures, discussions, live consultations, experiential exercises, special interest conversational clusters and the participation of a resident artist.

"Magical clinical demonstrations . . . generous faculty."

"Best training event I have ever attended!... Truly a collaborative and dialogical experience."

"It felt like a privilege to attend the ISI... I learned so much and was so inspired, with the added bonus of connecting with participants with whom I will keep in touch with for years."

"What an inspiring and respectful learning environment."
